MISSOURI STATE NEWS.

Two men entered the house of John Siegler, a wealthy farmer at Mokeville, in St. Louis County, the other morning and demanded money of his wife, a woman seventy years old, who was alone, and upon her refusal beat and choked her most cruelly, but not entil she had struck one of them a blow of the head with a hammer. She will probably die. When the husband and son returned they notified the sheriff at Clayton, and a posse was organized, but failed to run down the villains.

The ferry boat at Tuscumbia was cap-sized the other day while loaded with forty-two head of cattle that stampeded while on board. The cattle and one man were caught under the boat. The man escaped drowning by pulling off his boots and diving under the cattle. Only

A wneck was occasioned in the Mis-ouri Pacific yard at Kansas City the other morning by a passenger train and switch engine colliding while running at a high rate of speed. Both engines were badly wrecked, and Engineer Kaley severely injured. The loss to the road was about $12,000. SH.VER GLATT, a German, aged forty years, was found the other night by some boys hanging to a railroad treatle, one mile east of Mober y. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Glatt was evidently deranged. He leaves a farm and a small bank account. His family lives at Belleville, III.

Discovery of a clerical error invalidating the entire chapter of "Fees," as published in the Revised Statutes of 1889, has been made in the Department of State. The error lies in the fact that through a bungling indersement of a bill the encolling clerk of the Senate was misled and falled to incorporate, in transcribing the bill, an amendment that had been agreed to in both houses. The Attorney-General holds that this renders void the entire chapter, and the law will now, of course, be the act found in the session acts and the chapter "of fees" of the Revised Statutes of columnia, Mo., Sept. 3.—State Veterinarian Paquin has prepared for publication the following circular:

FROM AND MOUTH DISEASE.

At the outset I beg the stockman not to be alarmed at this heading and the newspapers not to raise a searle by partial explanations of this letter or inaccurate descriptions of the disease I am about to explain, or by partial explanations of the disease I am about to explain, or by partial explanation of my opinion.

Heretofore much damage has been done out live stock men, farmers and our market centers just because of raish, unjustifiable, incorrect publications, and by ridications excitement, aided, perhaps, by macrupulous speculators. Some years ago a panic was created in the live-stock centers because of an outbreak of ergotian in Kansas which had been termed foot and mouth discase of the ergo, why seen excitement? It is the middest epidemic of stock known, and the death rate scarcedy rises to B per cent, in the most virulent outbreaks and not by per cent, in the erginary. The only serious damage that it does cause is in reducing the flesh and stopping the milk. Here it does hart to the smouth of several dollars per head, It is to prevent such possibilities and limit the trouble that I write and explain publicly a now prevalent maisay attacking the mouth and feet of cattle in several counties in our State, and creating consernation among farmers and stockmen.

My object is to explain what to do, and I emphatically deciare that there is absolutely an need of alarm in the slightest degree. Now if some wise man or knowing character does not feel called upon to scare the mouth and feet of cattle in several counties in our State, and creating consernation among farmers and stockmen.
